SUMMARY

I'm a full-stack developer with a growing obsession for what happens below the framework — system design, low-level programming, and the guts of how an OS actually schedules a process. By day I'm a Software Engineer Intern shipping ME(A/R/V)N-stack products and APIs; by night I'm usually reverse-engineering how something works instead of just using it. Still figuring out my "one true stack" — and honestly, still enjoying the search.
